

DAVID HINGLEY

I have particular oversight of planning policy and on relations with the district and county councils. I want to ensure the parish retains its historic independent identity while successfully integrating the new housing developments with the old village, and to protect our cherished rural landscape into the future. I am an author and creator of the Mercia Blakewood historical crime novels.